GOVERNMENT

What are Long Beach and Signal Hill doing to address the SNAP crisis?

Samantha Diaz

Managing Editor

In late October, when it became clear the government shutdown had no clear end in sight, local food banks and pantries began preparing for the possibility that critical food assistance might be in jeopardy.

Over 5 million Californians lost their Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits for the month of November. The program, which helps low-income families purchase groceries, is now being partially funded for the month, but recipients don't know how much they are getting or when, leaving many families reliant on local food pantries.

To help keep refrigerators and cupboards stocked, private donors and organizations have poured tens of thousands into Long Beach's food banks. Los Angeles County also signed a $10 million contract with the Los Angeles Regional Food Bank to help them purchase more groceries and open additional pop-ups.

The Los Angeles Regional Food Bank sends much of their purchased food to smaller pantries, meaning many Long Beach pantries will benefit from this.

Residents have also stepped up to help their neighbors by donating, hosting food drives or volunteering at their local food bank.

"People always show up when they're needed," said Diana Lara, executive director of Food Finder.

Since SNAP benefits are government-funded, the Signal Tribune wanted to know: What are our local governments doing to fill this gap?

What Has Long Beach Done?

Over 93,000 residents in Long Beach are waiting to see when or if they will get their SNAP benefits. On Oct. 30, Mayor Rex Richardson convened a meeting with City staff and The Nonprofit Partnership to discuss how to support the city's food banks.

On Monday, Long Beach announced the Food Access Fund to help support the city's many nonprofits, food banks and pantries providing meals and groceries to those losing their benefits. As of Nov. 6, the fund has raised $6,075 through 54 donations.

The plan is for donations to go directly to local food pantries each week, a spokesperson from The Nonprofit Partnership told the Signal Tribune. Food banks and pantries that want to receive donations from the Food Access Fund have to fill out an interest form through Long Beach Gives, which will then be vetted by the City.

It's unclear when the first round of funding will be distributed, The Nonprofit Partnership said, and as of Nov. 6 the interest form is not online yet.

The agency acknowledged that residents might have a local food bank they donate to, and said they should keep making direct donations.

What Has Signal Hill Done?

Signal Hill does not track the number of residents it has enrolled in CalFresh, according to City Manager Carlo Tomaino. Nineteen percent of children within the city live in poverty, while 14% of the city's seniors are living in poverty, according to the U.S. Census.

Since the announcement that low-income Americans would not be receiving their usual food assistance in November, Signal Hill has not seen a "significant increase" in people requesting grocery assistance, Tomaino said. As a result, the City has not announced any additional support or programs for people losing SNAP.

Since SNAP benefits are government-funded, the Signal Tribune wanted to know: What are our local governments doing to fill this gap?

The City has two programs to help residents with food costs: the Family Food Distribution Program and the Senior Brown Bag Program.

Families in need of food assistance can apply for the Family Food Distribution Program to receive a $75 voucher each month to the Mother's Nutritional Center for groceries.

Low-income seniors 55 years or older in need of groceries can apply for the Brown Bag Program. Those who are able to pick up food can receive boxes of food such as poultry, fresh produce and canned or shelf-stable foods. Seniors who are unable to leave their home can receive meals two or three times per week delivered by Meals on Wheels.

Applications for both programs can be filled out either online or at the Parks, Recreation and Library Services Department, located inside the Signal Hill Public Library (1800 E. Hill St.). Both applications require proof of residence in Signal Hill, income verification (W2 or two check stubs within the last 60

How are Long Beach's pantries and providers faring while food insecurity keeps growing?

Long Beach residents receive food from volunteers at the Christian Outreach in Action pantry on Nov. 5, 2025. Residents who relied on SNAP are now relying on pantries and food banks as funds are delayed due to the government shutdown.

On the morning of Nov. 5, volunteers move quickly in the cramped and noisy warehouse basement of Long Beach's Christian Outreach in Action (COA).

Some are lugging boxes onto a conveyor belt stocked with food items from local grocery stores, restaurants and organizations. Others are unpacking those boxes, placing canned items, fresh produce, dairy, meats and snacks onto a table.

Just outside, seniors clutch empty grocery bags and wait in a long line to pick out their items, as volunteers scramble to make the tables neatly stocked and organized.

It's Senior Wednesday, and the pantry is preparing to meet the growing need of older residents relying on COA for their next meal — more than usual, said Executive Director Dixie Dohrmann — since the government announced they would be discontinuing, then reducing, SNAP benefits.

"We always need help, and we're just trying to meet the needs ... No one will ever go hungry with us, ever," Dohrmann said.

Jorge Hernandez | Signal Tribune

Over 5 million Californians have lost critical food assistance due to the ongoing government shutdown, which is now the longest in United States history.

The Supplemental Nutritional Assistance Program (SNAP), known as CalFresh in California, is a federally funded program that helps low-income residents buy groceries. The average family in California receives about $330 a month, loaded onto an Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) card.

In late October, recipients discovered they wouldn't be getting this critical support the following month. After two federal judges ruled that it was illegal to stop funding the country's largest anti-hunger program, it was announced the program will be partially funded in November. However, it's unclear how much of their regular benefits people will receive and when.

"We're foodies, we've prepared for this," Dohrmann said. "We're still here. We've never left ... We're still providing these services and more so today than ever before."

This cutoff doesn't just hurt low-income residents, who make up at least 30% of Long Beach residents, and more specifically 32.8% of children under 5 and 14% of seniors. According to the Food Research and Action Center, every dollar spent of SNAP benefits generates $1.79 in economic activity.

The over 40 million Americans on SNAP also support 388,000 jobs and are a huge source of economic activity at grocery stores. Californians alone typically receive $1 billion in SNAP funds every month. Governor Gavin Newsom joined 23 other states in a lawsuit to keep SNAP going during the shutdown.

In Long Beach, where 93,000 people have lost their regular source of grocery assistance, food pantries, food banks, nonprofits and even urban farms have begun bracing the impacts.

"It's heartbreaking because we continue to impact the same people," said Diana Lara, executive director of Food Finders. The nonprofit is one of Long Beach's largest and longest-running food pantries, having served the community since 1989.

In 2023, roughly 4.5 million residents received free groceries from Food Finders, most of them being seniors, Lara said.

Food Finders has been hosting monthly grocery distributions for the past three years. As their name suggests, the nonprofit finds food throughout the city through various methods, from grocery stores, restaurants, cafes and urban farms.

Thanks to a $30,000 boost from Supervisor Janice Hahn and another donation from Feeding America, Food Finders was able to ramp up to weekly distributions every Saturday through Dec. 20. After that, they don't know.

It's just the latest in a tumultuous past few years for Food Finders, which had to increase distributions during the pandemic. Most recently, the need for grocery deliveries have increased due to the ongoing Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) raids, now in their fifth month.

Jorge Hernandez | Signal Tribune
Varieties of food donated to the Christian Outreach in Action are being offered to Long Beach residents on Nov. 5, 2025.

And the worst is yet to come, Lara said. While analysts are still trying to figure out the impacts of President Donald Trump's Big Beautiful Bill, food advocates are preparing for an emergency.

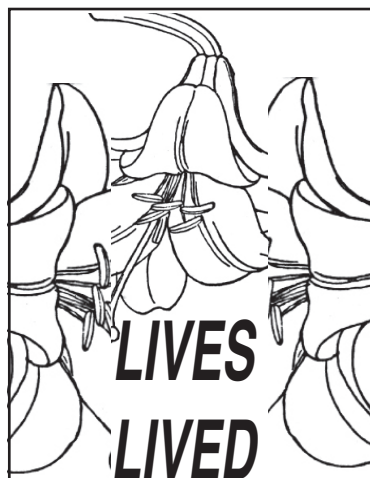

Also passed on Nov. 1 was new requirements on who can benefit from SNAP. The "Big Beautiful Bill" expanded the age range for able-bodied adults subject to time limits from 18-54 to 18-64, meaning people up to 64 years old will have to work at least 80 hours a month to receive their benefits. Individuals who don't meet these requirements can have their benefits taken after three months.

Trump's bill also removed these work requirement exemptions from veterans, homeless individuals, and youth aging out of foster care, and narrowed the caregiver exemption to those with children under 14.

"We're going to see the biggest impact next year," Lara said, especially for seniors, who are also facing cuts to Medicaid. "I think eventually it's going to surpass COVID, because we never got back to pre-COVID food insecurity rates, it just continued to grow. ... Over the next few years we're going to see a significant spike in food insecurity."

In their first weekly distribution, Diana said nearly 500 people lined up for groceries, despite it being announced on short notice. They expect even more people at their next distribution on Nov. 8.

Lend a hand: donation and volunteer opportunities to help your neighbors

Samantha Diaz

Managing Editor

Over 93,000 Long Beach residents who rely on CalFresh benefits are left wondering when they will receive their benefits as a result of the ongoing government shutdown, which at the time of publishing is in its 36th day.

After two federal judges ruled that freezing the country's largest anti-hunger program is unlawful, President Donald Trump announced that SNAP benefits would be restored, but recipients will only get half of their regular payment, and it is unclear when benefits will be loaded. The administration also announced that no newly certified residents will receive their payments.

Nationwide, this means over 42 million people are unexpectedly left without the money they use to purchase food.

Locally, Long Beach nonprofits and businesses have stepped up to help feed their neighbors. Those who are fortunate enough to not be impacted by the situation have plenty of opportunities to support their community. The Signal Tribune has compiled a list of Long Beach food drives, fundraisers and ongoing volunteer needs from those doing the work to meet the ongoing food needs.

Date-Specific

AOC7 Thanksgiving Meal Giveaway: The Anaheim Street, Orange Avenue, Cherry Avenue and 7th Street neighborhood organization (AOC7) needs volunteers for its sixth annual Thanksgiving meal giveaway on Nov. 15 at MacArthur Park (1321 Anaheim St.) from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Volunteers can sign up through a link on AOC7's Instagram @aoc-seven.

AOC7 will share a link for families to register to receive a meal through its Instagram next week.

Tattoo Thanksgiving Food Drive: Bixby Knolls Tattoo (4332 Atlantic Ave.) is hosting a food drive to gather canned or non-perishable foods. Visitors can bring $30 worth of food (receipt required) to receive $30 off their tattoo on Nov. 7.

Book Nook Food Drive: Book Nook of Long Beach is hosting this fun and free community event to gather food and donations for neighbors on Nov. 8 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Qargo Coffee (707 E. Ocean Blvd.). People can donate either five non-perishable food items, gift cards to supermarkets or make a monetary donation and will receive a raffle ticket in return for the chance to win prizes.

Recreational Coffee Food Drive: Residents can bring shelf-stable foods, hygiene products, water bottles, undergarments, gloves, socks and pet food to Recreational Coffee (237 Long Beach Blvd. Suite A) for neighbors in need. Beginning the week of Nov. 10, residents can come and collect whatever they need from these donations every Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon. The shop also hopes to provide free meals soon. More information on meals will be provided through their instagram @recreationalcoffee.

Ongoing

Care Culture Collaborative: This downtown-focused mutual aid group distributes food to unhoused neighbors and anyone else who needs it every Saturday, beginning at Kim Long Market (324 Anaheim St.) at 12:30 p.m. They also accept monetary donations to help purchase hygiene products, water, utensils, hydration packets and more.

Long Beach Community Table: With food distributions and drop-offs almost every day of the week throughout the city, this nonprofit is in need of monetary donations, food donations, hygiene products, delivery drivers, park and encampment food distributors and warehouse volunteers.

Food donations can be dropped off at 3311 E. 59th St. during open pantry hours, on Tuesday and Wednesday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., on Friday from noon to 4 p.m. and on Saturday from noon to 2 p.m.

Monetary donations can be given at bit.ly/give-lbct.

To get involved, email Kristen at LBCTVolunteers@gmail.com.

Food Finders: As one of the city's largest food distributors, this nonprofit is ramping up its schedule to meet community needs. As a result, monetary donations, food donations and volunteers for sorting, distribution and grocery delivery are in high demand.

Food donations can be dropped off at any of the Long Beach public libraries or Trademark Brewing. If a business wants to host their own food drive, collection bins and signs are available by contacting Mark Eden 462-283-1400 ext. 117.

Those interested in volunteering can visit foodfinders.org/volunteer/ or contact Stephen Gomez at 562-283-1400 ext. 112. Volunteers need to fill out an online form, then can choose between the weekly distributions, food pick-up routes, grocery delivery and more.

Monetary donations can be made through a link in the bio of Food Finders' Instagram @foodfindersinc.

The City of Long Beach and the Nonprofit Partnership has started the Food Access Fund to support local nonprofits feeding the community. Donations will be distributed to nonprofits that complete an interest form on a weekly basis, the Nonprofit Partnership told the Signal Tribune.

Don't see a volunteer opportunity near you? Long Beach Fresh has a map of food banks, pantries and nonprofits throughout the city that residents can contact to see if they need help.

If you have a fundraiser, food drive or volunteer opportunity, please send the information to Newspaper@SignalTribune.com or to our Instagram @signaltribune.

LABOR

Long Beach announces proposed labor agreements with firefighters and lifeguards

Staff Report
Signal Tribune

The City of Long Beach has announced tentative new labor deals with the local lifeguards and firefighters unions, securing salary bumps for both workforces as well as a full-time paramedic rescue.

The proposed three-year labor agreements with the Long Beach Lifeguards Association (LGA) and the Long Beach Firefighters Association (FFA) will be publicly considered during the Long Beach City Council meeting on Nov. 11. The LGA represents 211 employees while the FFA's membership is comprised of 411 employees.

Lifeguard Agreement

The LGA's tentative agreement, ratified by members on Oct. 30, addresses wages and strengthens workforce recruitment and retention efforts. It includes the following terms:

- Three-year contract from Oct. 1, 2025 to Sept. 30, 2028.
- General salary increases of 2% in the first year, 2% in the second year and 3% in the third year.
- Salary adjustments for the classifications of Marine Safety Battalion Chief, Marine Safety Officer and Marine Safety Rescue Boat Captain.
- New education pay for lifeguard non-careers.

"We are pleased to have reached an agreement with the City that supports our lifeguards and ensures our ability to continue providing vital water safety services for the residents and visitors of Long Beach," said LGA President Devon Beebe in a public statement.

Beginning in June, representatives from the City and LGA held six negotiation meetings before agreeing to terms. The total estimated cost for the LGA's three-year agreement is $1.62 million.

"Long Beach is home to over six miles of beautiful public beaches and waterways, and our lifeguards are vital to keeping them safe," said Mayor Rex Richardson in a public statement. "This agreement commits to our lifeguards' futures and ensures they are supported so they can continue to protect our community and make our beaches a welcoming place for residents and visitors alike."

Firefighter's Agreement

The FFA's tentative agreement, ratified by members on Oct. 25, ensures greater compensation and bolsters the Fire Department's resources. It includes the following terms:

- Three-year contract from Oct. 1, 2025 to Sept. 30, 2028.
- General salary increases of 2% in the first year, 3% in the second year and 4% in the third year.
- Addition of one full-time paramedic rescue.
- Increase to eligible employees for Firefighter II skill pay.
- FFA active members will make mandatory contributions to their Retired Health Savings Account beginning Oct. 3, 2026.

"This agreement marks a new era of partnership between the City and our members, built on accountability, collaboration and a shared commitment to public safety," said Lamont Nguyen, FFA President in a public statement. "It secures the staffing, equipment and resources our firefighters need to protect a growing Long Beach while ensuring the City continues to invest in its people. Together, we've set a new standard that moves beyond 'doing more with less' toward a stronger, safer and more resilient community."

City and FFA representatives met seven times, starting in May, before settling on this agreement. The total estimated cost for the FFA's three-year agreement is $18.8 million for the General Fund Group and $19 million for All Funds.

"This agreement reflects a balanced and forward-thinking approach that recognizes the critical and evolving role of our sworn Fire Department personnel," said City Manager Tom Modica in a public statement. "By investing in the people who serve, we also invest in the safety, resilience and quality of life of everyone in Long Beach. I want to thank the FFA for their close partnership in reaching this agreement."

AROUND TOWN

A WEEKLY LIST OF THINGS TO DO IN LONG BEACH AND SIGNAL HILL

Richard H. Grant | Signal Tribune

All are invited to the Waves of Ability - Adaptive Sports Fair this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Marine Stadium. This free event for people of all abilities and ages will include sports demonstrations, live performances, wellness booths, health services, vendors, food trucks and more.

Long Beach offers a variety of events this week for community members and their families, ranging from festive holiday activities and hands-on workshops to cultural celebrations, volunteer opportunities and informative public meetings.

The Chrysanthemum Festival at CSULB's Earl Burns Miller Japanese Garden will offer visitors a chance to enjoy beautiful flowers alongside music, crafts and Japanese cultural activities. Meanwhile, Salvi Fest at Shoreline Park will honor Salvadoran heritage with live music, traditional foods, interactive games and a vendor marketplace.

Volunteers are needed to help out at the Great Tryke Giveaway at Bancroft Middle School on Saturday, where children with disabilities will receive adaptive tricycles. Later that same day, the Waves of Ability Adaptive Sports Fair at Marine Stadium will showcase adaptive sports demonstrations, wellness activities and entertainment for people of all ages and abilities.

On Thursday, families can stop by the Harte Neighborhood Library for a free holiday photo shoot and create seasonal crafts perfect for gifting. Community members can also visit the Billie Jean King Main Library to design and laser-cut their own holiday cards.

07 FRIDAY

BUBBLE BOOGIE

10:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. Babies, toddlers and their families are invited to dance and play with bubbles at Burnett Neighborhood Library (560 E. Hill St.). Free.

SILENT DISCO

8:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Dance in the moonlight during this silent disco on the bow of the Queen Mary (1126 Queens Hwy.). Guests will receive wireless headphones that can switch between three DJ-curated music channels featuring pop, EDM and classic hits. Tickets can be purchased on the Queen Mary's website for $21.20.

08 SATURDAY

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITY

8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Volunteers are invited to join the Los Angeles Trial Lawyers' Charities (LATLC) and the Orange County Trial Lawyers' Charities (OCTLC) at Bancroft Middle School (5301 E. Centralia St.) for the 2025 Great Tryke Giveaway. This community service event celebrates children receiving new adaptive tricycles and offers volunteers the chance to help assemble 1,000 toiletry kits for individuals experiencing homelessness in Los Angeles and Orange counties. Those interested in volunteering can sign up on the LATLC website.

WAVES OF ABILITY - ADAPTIVE SPORTS FAIR

10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The public is invited to Marine Stadium (5255 E. Paoli Way) for an event spotlighting adaptive sports, featuring sports demonstrations, live performances, wellness booths, health services, vendors, food trucks and more. People of all abilities and ages are welcome. Free.

CHRYSANTHEMUM FESTIVAL

1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The public is invited to celebrate the beauty of the chrysanthemum in the Earl Burns Miller Japanese Garden (1250 Bellflower Blvd.) on the CSULB campus. Guests can appreciate the flowers while enjoying music, crafts and cultural activities that highlight Japanese traditions. Parking is free in Lot G4. Admission is $10, and can be purchased on the university's website.

09 SUNDAY

SALVI FEST

Noon to 10 p.m. Celebrate Salvadoran culture, music and cuisine at Shoreline Park (200 Aquarium Way) during this family-friendly festival. Attendees can enjoy live performances from Salvadoran artists, food trucks with traditional dishes, interactive games, a vendor marketplace and cultural activities.

General admission is free.

LIVE MUSIC

3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Music lovers over the age of 21 are invited to a live performance featuring Lightning' Luke, Swingin' Johnny, and Kassage at The 4th Horseman (121 W. Fourth St.). Doors open at 2:30 p.m. Free admission.

10 MONDAY

PRINTMAKING MONDAYS

7 p.m. to 9 p.m. This beginner-friendly space invites all people to create what their heart desires, with all supplies provided by PLACE LB (2172 Pacific Ave.). This is a pay-what-you-can event, and no one will be turned away due to lack of funds, but there is a suggested donation of $1-5.

NO PULP POETRY CLUB

8:30 p.m. Local poets are invited to share their work during this open mic night at Recreational Coffee (237 Long Beach Blvd., Suite A). Doors open at 7:30 p.m. Free admission.

11 TUESDAY

LOW-COST VACCINE CLINIC

10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Long Beach Animal Care Services (7700 E. Spring St.) will be offering discounted vaccines and microchips for pets. Cats must be brought in carriers and dogs must be leashed. Services are available on a first-come, first-served basis for the first 60 pets. Treatment prices vary.

LITTLE AVIATORS

10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Families are invited to the Hangar Lawn at Long Beach Exchange (4150 McGowen St.) for this month's kids club celebrating Native American Heritage Month. The event will feature themed entertainment and crafts for children. Admission is free, but registration is encouraged to ensure enough supplies for all participants. To register, visit the Long Beach Exchange's website.

VETERANS DAY CELEBRATION

11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The public is invited aboard the Queen Mary (1126 Queens Hwy.) for a special Veterans Day celebration honoring our nation's fighters. The event will feature live music, arts and crafts, letters to the troops and family-friendly activities for all ages. Free.

12 WEDNESDAY

PRESCHOOL DISCOVERY HOUR

Noon to 1 p.m. Children ages 3 to 5 and their caregivers are invited to learn as they play together at Michelle Obama Neighborhood Library (5870 Atlantic Ave.). Kids will explore new concepts through fun, hands-on activities. Free.

TEEN CAFE

4 p.m. to 5 p.m. Teens ages 13 to 18 are invited to the Michelle Obama Neighborhood Library (5870 Atlantic Ave.) to create their own autumn-themed lanterns. All materials will be provided, but supplies are limited. Free.

PLANNING FOR HOUSING OPEN HOUSE

5 p.m. to 7 p.m. The public can learn about the City of Long Beach's efforts to increase housing supply, access and affordability during this open house at Billie Jean King Main Library (200 W. Broadway). City staff will be available to answer questions and collect community feedback. Free.

DESIGN FOR LONGEVITY - ADUS AND AGING IN PLACE PANEL

6 p.m. to 8 p.m. The public is invited to Studio One Eleven (245 E. Third St.) for a discussion on sustainable and flexible living through accessory dwelling units (ADUs). Hosted by the DTLB Design District and author Lili Weigert, the event will feature insights from Weigert's new book "Making Space: ADUs for Modern Living" and a panel with stakeholders. The evening will include a moderated conversation, audience Q&A, a book signing and reception. Register on Eventbrite. Free admission.

13 THURSDAY

4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Families and friends are invited to Harte Neighborhood Library (1595 W. Willow St.) to have their holiday photo taken with a festive background. Those who prefer not to pose for photos can still attend and make seasonal crafts — to keep or to give as gifts. Free.

LASER CUT HOLIDAY POP-UP CARDS

4 p.m. to 6 p.m. The public is invited to design and create laser-cut holiday pop-up cards at Billie Jean King Main Library (200 W. Broadway). Participants will use Canva to design their cards, cut them on colored cardstock using the library's laser cutter, and assemble their finished creations. All materials will be provided. This event is appropriate for adults and kids over the age of 12. Free.

FIBER CLUB

4:30 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. Teens and young adults are invited to a crafting meetup at the Billie Jean King Main Library (200 W. Broadway). Attendees can work on their knitting, crocheting or other fiber arts projects. Materials such as yarn, crochet hooks and knitting needles will be provided, but participants are welcome to bring their own supplies. This event is appropriate for those 13 and older. All experience levels are welcome. Free.

LB FOOD PANTRIES

attending their daily breakfast and hot meals, on top of the 300-400 people a day coming to the pantry.

On the ground level, or perhaps soil level, Long Beach's Farm Lot 59 is doing everything they can to increase production. The farm provides a batch of fresh produce to Food Finders every week, which then goes to Long Beach residents through their food distributions.

She and her staff — some of whom are also facing the loss of their Cal-

Fresh benefits — have spent the last week shifting plant schedules and increasing production to meet the community's needs.

But it's a slow process, said Sasha Kanno, executive director of Farm Lot 59.

"We planted seeds today and we'll be cutting lettuce in about 45 days, but that's about as fast as I can go," Kanno said. "... It's adding another layer of stress to a very tumultuous and stressful situation we're all already dealing with."

If you or someone you know is in need of food assistance, visit Long Beach Fresh's online food map, Care Culture Collaborative's directory organized by days of the week or ÓRALE's directory organized by zip code and specifically verified for the safety of immigrants and their families. Long Beach Forward also has a list of food banks, hot meals and pantries throughout the city.

What You Can Do:

- Find your nearest food pantry: ÓRALE has a directory of food pantries organized by zip code, all of which have confirmed they do not inquire about immigration status. The City of Long Beach has a list of pantries and places providing hot meals throughout the day on its website. Even if you don't need food assistance right now, it's good to know where your nearest is located for when you do need help.
- Donate and volunteer: Check our list of nonprofits, pantries, food banks and local businesses that are looking for donations and/or volunteers to help the community stay fed.
- Contact your representatives: Let your councilmember know if you're struggling to afford groceries. The more the city is aware of its residents' needs, the more they're likely to step in with support. To find your councilperson, use the City's online map.

ENVIRONMENT

Learn about LB's plan to clean up the LA River at this virtual meeting

Staff Report
Signal Tribune

Long Beach will host a virtual public meeting for residents to learn about the Marine Debris and Trash Capture System Project on Wednesday, Nov. 12 from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Richard H. Grant | Signal Tribune
A pair of face masks lay in the sand near 62nd Place in Long Beach's Peninsula neighborhood in March 2021.

The project aims to reduce pollution in Long Beach's waterways and coastal areas that comes from the Los Angeles River and cities upstream of Long Beach.

City staff will give an overview of the Marine Debris and Trash Capture System Project's initial phase: a feasibility study to evaluate which technologies can be used to intercept trash and debris in the Los Angeles River before it reaches Long Beach.

The initial phase will also identify location to place these technologies and outline the next steps for design, permitting, construction, funding and long-term operations and maintenance. Attendees will be able to discuss community concerns relating to pollution, the Los Angeles River and its surrounding marine environments.

The project is funded in part through a 2022 settlement award from a lawsuit against Monsanto.

Community members are encouraged to attend the virtual workshop to learn more about the project, the feasibility study process and how findings will guide future decisions.

Residents can register for the meeting online, and learn more about the project at lbcity.info/marinedebrisproject.

Pre-registration is encouraged but not required. Interpretation services in Spanish, Khmer and Tagalog and any other accommodation will be available upon requests made by end of day Thursday, Nov. 6.

Pet of the week:
Rabbit

Look at those eyes, as blue as the sky on a clear day! They belong to Rabbit, a year-old Siberian husky blend. Rabbit earned his name from the way he hops and skips playfully around the yard with the doggie friends he's made at Long Beach Animal Care Services and helped adjust to shelter life. He loves the doggie pool! Rabbit has human friends, too—he loves his volunteer buddies, although he's shy at first with new people. Like any rabbit, Rabbit loves tricks, especially agility and "sit pretty." Shelter life, as good as it may be at Long Beach Animal Care Services, is no place for any pet, particularly one as timid as Rabbit. A forever home, or at least a foster, would be ideal, with a predictable setting and consistent, loving human attention. Could you do the trick of pulling the Rabbit out of the hatch? Long Beach Animal Care Services is over capacity with dogs, so speed the process to adopt or foster Rabbit or any of our other pets by emailing PetAdopt@longbeach.gov or petfoster@longbeach.gov. You can also call (562) 570-4925. Our shelter hours are Wednesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 7700 E. Spring St. at the entrance to El Dorado Park (no parking fee for shelter visitors). Ask for ID#A738526.

Estimated amount of unpaid balance, reasonably estimated costs and other charges: $ 889,485.05
THE TRUSTEE WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO HIGHEST BIDDER FOR CASH, CASHIER'S CHECK DRAWN ON A STATE OR NATIONAL BANK, A CHECK DRAWN BY A STATE OR FEDERAL CREDIT UNION, OR A CHECK DRAWN BY A STATE OR FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, A SAVINGS ASSOCIATION OR SAVINGS BANK SPECIFIED IN SECTION 5102 OF THE FINANCIAL CODE AND AUTHORIZED TO DO BUSINESS IN THIS STATE:
All right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by the trustee in the herein-after described property under and pursuant to a Deed of Trust described as:
More fully described in said Deed of Trust. Street Address or other common designation of real property: 2119 RIDGEVIEW TERRACE DRIVE, SIGNAL HILL, CA 90806 A.P.N.: 7217-029-007
The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address or other common designation, if any, shown above.

The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by the Deed of Trust with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, under the terms of said Deed of Trust, fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligation secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is: $ 889,485.05.
Note: Because the Beneficiary reserves the right to bid less than the total debt owed, it is possible that at the time of the sale the opening bid may be less than the total debt.

If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse.
The beneficiary of the Deed of Trust has executed and delivered to the undersigned a written request to commence foreclosure, and the undersigned caused a Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale post-ponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site <https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx> using the file number assigned to this case 2023-02050-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction, if conducted after January 1, 2021, pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (866)-960-8299, or visit this internet website <https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx>, using the file number assigned to this case 2023-02050-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.
