Signal Hill releases draft voting district maps

Samantha Diaz
Managing Editor

Signal Hill City Council discussed the preliminary boundaries of the city’s new voting districts and chose a map to start working from at the Oct. 13 meeting.

Five voting districts are slated to kick in during the November 2028 election, but the map must be adopted and finalized into the City’s ordinance by the council in November of this year. Two districts will have an election in 2028, and the other three districts will hold a 2030 election.

This pivotal change responds to the letter of intent to sue Signal Hill from the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project. The non-partisan voting rights organization cited underrepresentation of the Latino vote and the California Voting Rights Act, giving the City the option to challenge them in court or voluntarily switch to districts

The Council unanimously chose map 101 out of four options, citing that the district borders keep natural parts of the town together, like the westside, the historical district, the southwest area and a chunk of new condos and apartments.

Another factor the Council considered was its Opportunity Study Areas (OSAs), which are part of the City’s downtown revitalization efforts. Since these OSAs will receive new commercial and residential developments, the Council felt they should be broken up equally in the districts. To do so, they requested a change to map 101 to use Cherry Avenue as a dividing border all throughout the map.

See the preliminary version of map 101 on page 4!

NDC, explained that some blocks within districts may have a majority population of voters, where perhaps the median age is above 18, while others may have lower voter turnout or fewer voting-age residents.

Signal Hill and Long Beach enter water delivery agreement

Samuel Chacko | Signal Tribune

Then-Mayor Kier Jones (far left) and multiple Signal Hill councilmembers celebrate the opening of water well No. 10 on Oct. 23, 2025. Well No. 10 supplies the Gundry Reservoir and is used to during the high-water-use months between March and October.

Samantha Diaz
Managing Editor

In an effort to diversify its water supply, Signal Hill is entering an agreement with the City of Long Beach to purchase clean water for its reserves.

At its Oct. 13 city council meeting, Signal Hill approved an agreement with Long Beach Utilities, something Mayor Tina Hansen said has been in talks for years. Public Works began solidifying this agreement with Long Beach last summer, said department director Gabino Luna.

The goal of this agreement is to provide Signal Hill with greater flexibility, especially as the City continues to rehabilitate its wells and reservoirs, and is still finalizing well 10. Water from Long Beach Utilities will also be considerably cheaper than water the City has been purchasing from the Metropolitan Water District (MWD).

Signal Hill’s longstanding goal, according to its Urban Water Management Plan, is to prioritize the use of groundwater over imported water.

Water from Long Beach will travel through an emergency connection on Brayton Avenue and Wardlow Road, then will be stored in the Gundry Reservoir. Following unanimous approval from Signal Hill City Council, the State Water Resources Control Board still has to approve the permit and Signal Hill will conduct a water sample test.

The City also has to figure out the chemical balance to treat the water coming into the Gundry Reservoir to make sure it mixes well with the water already in there.

Signal Hill is required to have 1,982 GPM on-hand for any given day, but by 2045, they’ll be required

While the Bay Shore Neighborhood Library is closed to the public, the community will still be able to access to-go services and weekly story times.

Staff Report

Signal Tribune

Long Beach's Bay Shore Neighborhood Library will temporarily close from Oct. 26 through at least early 2027 for ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) and restroom improvements.

The library's existing restrooms will be renovated to create fully accessible, all-gender facilities. Bay Shore will also see its electrical panel relocated, as well as a modified hallway and office walls, upgraded lighting and plumbing and a new drinking fountain.

While the library is closed, the community will continue to have access to select library services, including:

•To-Go Service: Afternoon pickup service will be available for library materials.

•Weekly Story Times: Story times will continue to provide opportunities for children and families to stay connected with the library at off-site locations. For more information about locations, dates, and times, visit the Long Beach Public Library's website.

During Bay Shore Neighborhood Library's temporary closure, residents can visit three nearby locations:

•Alamitos Neighborhood

Library – open Tuesday through Saturday (1836 E. Third St.)

•Brewitt Neighborhood Library – open Tuesday through Saturday (4036 E. Anaheim St.)

•Los Altos Neighborhood Library – open Tuesday through Saturday (5614 E. Britton Dr.)

LBPD Chief Wally Hebeish announces retirement

Staff Report

Signal Tribune

After five years, Long Beach Police Department (LBPD) Chief Wally Hebeish announced Wednesday that he will retire at the end of the year.

Hebeish has 32 years of service and was the 27th officer to lead the department. He has served as chief since December 2021, leading a staff of over 1,200 employees.

"It has been an incredible honor to stand alongside the dedicated men and women of the Long Beach Police Department in service of our community," said Hebeish in a public statement. "Leading our police department through some of the most challenging times we have faced in modern law enforcement was only possible because of the support given to me by our police officers, professional staff, labor partners, City leadership and the Long Beach community. I will be forever grateful for the trust placed in me to lead our department and serve our city."

Chief Hebeish began his law enforcement career with the Orange County Sheriff's Department in 1994 before laterally joining the LBPD in 1995. Before being appointed Chief of Police, Chief Hebeish rose through every rank within the LBPD, including serving as Chief of Staff, Deputy Chief of the Support Bureau, Deputy Chief of the Patrol Bureau and Assistant Chief of Police.

He has worked in a variety of assignments throughout his career and has extensive experience in the areas of Criminal Intelligence, Investigations, Patrol and Internal Affairs.

During his tenure with the LBPD, Chief Hebeish has helped the Department through many challenges and was instrumental in the implementation of programs to address crime, guide organizational growth, improve employee wellness and increase public trust. He created the Department's first Wellness Division and the Community Services Bureau.

Additionally, his investment in programs to close gender disparities in law enforcement has resulted in more women in positions of leadership than at any prior time in the Department's history.

"Chief Hebeish has led the Long Beach Police Department through a transformative period in modern policing, and he has done so with integrity, compassion and an unwavering commitment to our community," said City Manager Tom Modica in a public statement. "He has built a Department that is further grounded in community trust, equity, employee wellness and keeping every neighborhood safe, and Long Beach is stronger because of his leadership."

Under Hebeish's tenure as Chief, Long Beach experienced year-over-year reductions in shootings as well as zero officer-involved shootings in 2025, a first in the Department's history.

The City Manager plans to conduct a national recruitment process, with an outside recruiter to be brought on to run the process. Prior to the selection of the new Police Chief, there will be a community input process to provide the City Manager feedback on what residents are seeking in their next Chief of Police, which will in turn help inform the selection process.

This process will take place over the next few months, with an announcement of the next Chief of Police expected in early 2027. Candidates will undergo a multi-step screening and interview process with Human Resources, a community panel, a technical panel and City department directors, with the selection ultimately made by the City Manager.

Pet of the week: Sunshine

You are my Sunshine, my only Sunshine ... Meet our only Sunshine, all ready for you to snap on her leash and go trick-or-treating! And her buddy volunteer Kristi says she's a treat to walk! Sunshine checks in often with her walker, and even though she's curious about everything around her, she never pulls on the leash. Bikes, passing humans—no reaction at all. But she loves to interact with people she knows, and as for trick-or-treating, treats motivate Sunshine and she'll do anything for one! She's only 2, and the biggest treat for her would be to spend the rest of her years bringing Sunshine into someone's life—maybe yours! Adopt or foster Sunshine by emailing PetAdopt@longbeach.gov or petfoster@longbeach.gov. You can also call (562) 570-4925. Shelter hours are Wednesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 7700 E. Spring St. at the entrance to El Dorado Park (no parking fee for shelter visitors). Ask for ID#A760099.

AROUND TOWN

A WEEKLY LIST OF THINGS TO DO IN LONG BEACH AND SIGNAL HILL

The countdown to Halloween continues, and with it comes a new slate of seasonal events to haunt, terrify and entertain residents citywide.

Saturday brings Downtown Long Beach’s Fright Fest on Pine, Long Beach Community Media Art’s Film Spooktacular at PLACE LB and the free annual Halloween Carnival at Signal Hill Park. The following day, celebrate Día de los Muertos at Good Luck Vinyl Club’s 4th Street Mercado and the Museum of Latin American Art’s Day of the Dead festival. Plus, celebrate classic science fiction stories with Long Beach Shakespeare Company’s radio production of “War of the Worlds,” happening Friday through Sunday, and a Rocky Horror Night at Alex’s Bar Wednesday.

Fortunately, scaredy cats will still have plenty to do over the weekend. This Saturday and Sunday, the Long Beach Open Studio Tour heads Eastside, volunteers can join a beach cleanup at the Peninsula Saturday morning and Sunday’s Belmont Shore Book Fair will showcase the local literary scene. During the week, enjoy free events such as a tai chi class for Signal Hill seniors on Monday, Tuesday’s Family Dental Fair at the Family Resource Center and a movie trivia night Thursday at the Art Theatre of Long Beach.

FOURTH FRIDAYS

6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Every fourth Friday in Retro Row is celebrated with pop-ups, live music and an array of food and drink specials. Special festivities on Fourth Street to check out include local activist groups selling stickers and tote bags in front of Gusto Bread (2710 E. Fourth St.) and Page Against the Machine (2714 E. Fourth St.), as well as a bake sale fundraiser at Bel Canto Books (2106 E. Fourth St.), with proceeds going towards rent and medication for Gaza resident Amjad. Free.

“THE WAR OF THE WORLDS”
8 p.m. Experience an annual Halloween tradition at Helen Borgers Theatre (4250 Atlantic Ave.) via the Long Beach Shakespeare Company’s production of “The War of the Worlds.” On stage, this science-fiction classic plays as a radio broadcast, paying homage to Orson Welles’ seismic 1938 reading. Doors open at 7:30 p.m. Performances are also on Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. at the same location. Tickets are $21.50 online.

24 SATURDAY

MEGA COMMUNITY RESOURCE FAIR

10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Whole Systems Learning (161 W. Victoria St.) is transforming its parking lot into a one-stop shop for community engagement during its inaugural Mega Community Resource Fair. Visitors can expect live music, a trunk-or-treat, giveaways, food vendors and a kids zone with a jumper and a DJ. Plus, service providers, job and employment resources and chances to connect with local organizations. RSVP online. Free.

OPEN STUDIO TOUR
1 p.m. to 5 p.m. For the final installment of this year’s Long Beach Open Studio Tour, local art admirers can peruse several creative studios and workspaces on the Eastside this Saturday and Sunday. For the full list of participating locations, check out the tour’s interactive map. Free.

HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL
2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Enjoy carnival games, bounce houses, a trunk-or-treat and more during this family-friendly event at Signal Hill Park (2175 Cherry Ave.). Carnival wristbands are $5 for residents, $7 for non-residents and $7 for all who purchase them the day of the event; kids ages 1 and older must have a wristband to participate in all activities. Wristbands can be purchased at Signal Hill’s Parks, Recreation & Library Services office (1800 E. Hill St.) until Oct. 23.

25 SUNDAY

BELMONT SHORE BOOK FAIR

11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Lovers of all things literary can converse with and purchase items from local writers, publishers and poets in the parking lot at Chase Bank (5200 E. Second St.). Attendees can discover new works, add to their collections and hear from community voices through poetry readings and panel discussions. Free.

DAY OF THE DEAD FESTIVAL
11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Museum of Latin American Art’s (MOLAA) 30th anniversary celebrations will continue with its annual Día de los Muertos celebration. The festivities at MOLAA (628 Alamitos Ave.) will include food vendors, genre-bending sets from DJ Caveman, traditional dance performances and a decorative catrina/catrin contest. RSVPs are required to attend. Free.

4TH STREET MERCADO
4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Good Luck Vinyl Club is collaborating with 4th Street Long Beach and @valeriametzz on another edition of the 4th Street Mercado at 2105 E. Fourth St. Themed “Una Noche Bajo La Luna” (A Night Under the Moon), this event will commemorate Día de los Muertos and La Cosecha. The mercado will feature over 25 artisan and record vendors, art installations, all-vinyl DJ sets, live cumbia tunes and a pet costume contest (5 p.m.). Free.

26 MONDAY
TAI CHI
9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. Residents ages 55+ can flow through a gentle tai chi class, led by instructor Angie Sierra, inside the Community Room of the Signal Hill Library (1800 E. Hill St.). Registration is required due to limited space. For more information, call 562-989-7330. Free.

27 TUESDAY
HOUSING COMMITTEE MEETING
2 p.m. Join Long Beach Residents Empowered (LiBRE) for the next Housing Committee Meeting at Long Beach City Hall (411 W. Ocean Blvd.). LiBRE plans on presenting Just Cause recommendations and invites community members to advocate for stronger protections to prevent displacement, share their stories and demand city leaders make necessary changes for residents. Free.

FAMILY DENTAL FAIR
3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Celebrate Dental Hygiene Month with the Children’s Dental Health Clinic at the Family Resource Center (1301 Pine Ave.). Local families can stop by for oral health resources, complimentary dental screenings and oral care goodie bags for the first 50 attendees. Walk-ins are welcome, but early registration at tinyurl.com/

FRCFamilyDentalFair is encouraged. Free.

28 WEDNESDAY
ROCKY HORROR NIGHT
6:30 p.m. To celebrate the legacy of the original Dr. Frank-N-Furter, actor Tim Curry, Alex’s Bar (2913 E. Anaheim St.) is hosting a “Rocky Horror Show”-themed party with all-night drink specials. The evening will begin with Rocky Horror trivia for teams of 4-6 people, followed by a dance party (starting at 9:30 p.m.) featuring DJ Mystere and live performances by the Bit of Mustard shadow cast. Trivia sign-ups start at 5:30 p.m. RSVP on Dice. Free.

29 THURSDAY
MOVIE TRIVIA NIGHT
9:30 p.m. Cinephiles can head to the Art Theatre of Long Beach (2025 E. Fourth St.) to partake in its monthly film trivia event. Hosted by the theater’s film programmer, Kenna Wong Ghail, the trivia will consist of five rounds, each with ten questions, plus chances for bonus points. Trivia contestants can play solo or in teams of up to 10 people — just no phones allowed. Prizes for winners and runner-ups include free tickets to upcoming shows and exclusive posters. Sign up online. Free.

VOTING DISTRICT MAPS

“This is actually one of the intentions of district elections in general,” Levitt said. “There are parts of the state and the country where turnout rates differ. So by equalizing this total population, the Supreme Court has called it the one-person, one-vote principle. This helps to make sure that children and other non-voters also are equally represented as well as voters and non-citizens.”

While the Supreme Court recently ruled that states cannot create voting district lines based predominately on race, other factors can be used such as partisanship. Levitt says this ruling has left them in a “murky” position.

“We don’t have real guidance from the court on the extent to which race can be a permissible factor to look at in the creation of districts,” Levitt explained, adding that they still examined the possibility of creating maps that prioritize protected classes. However, he said every map they drafted already included a majority protected class, so it didn’t end up being a factor.

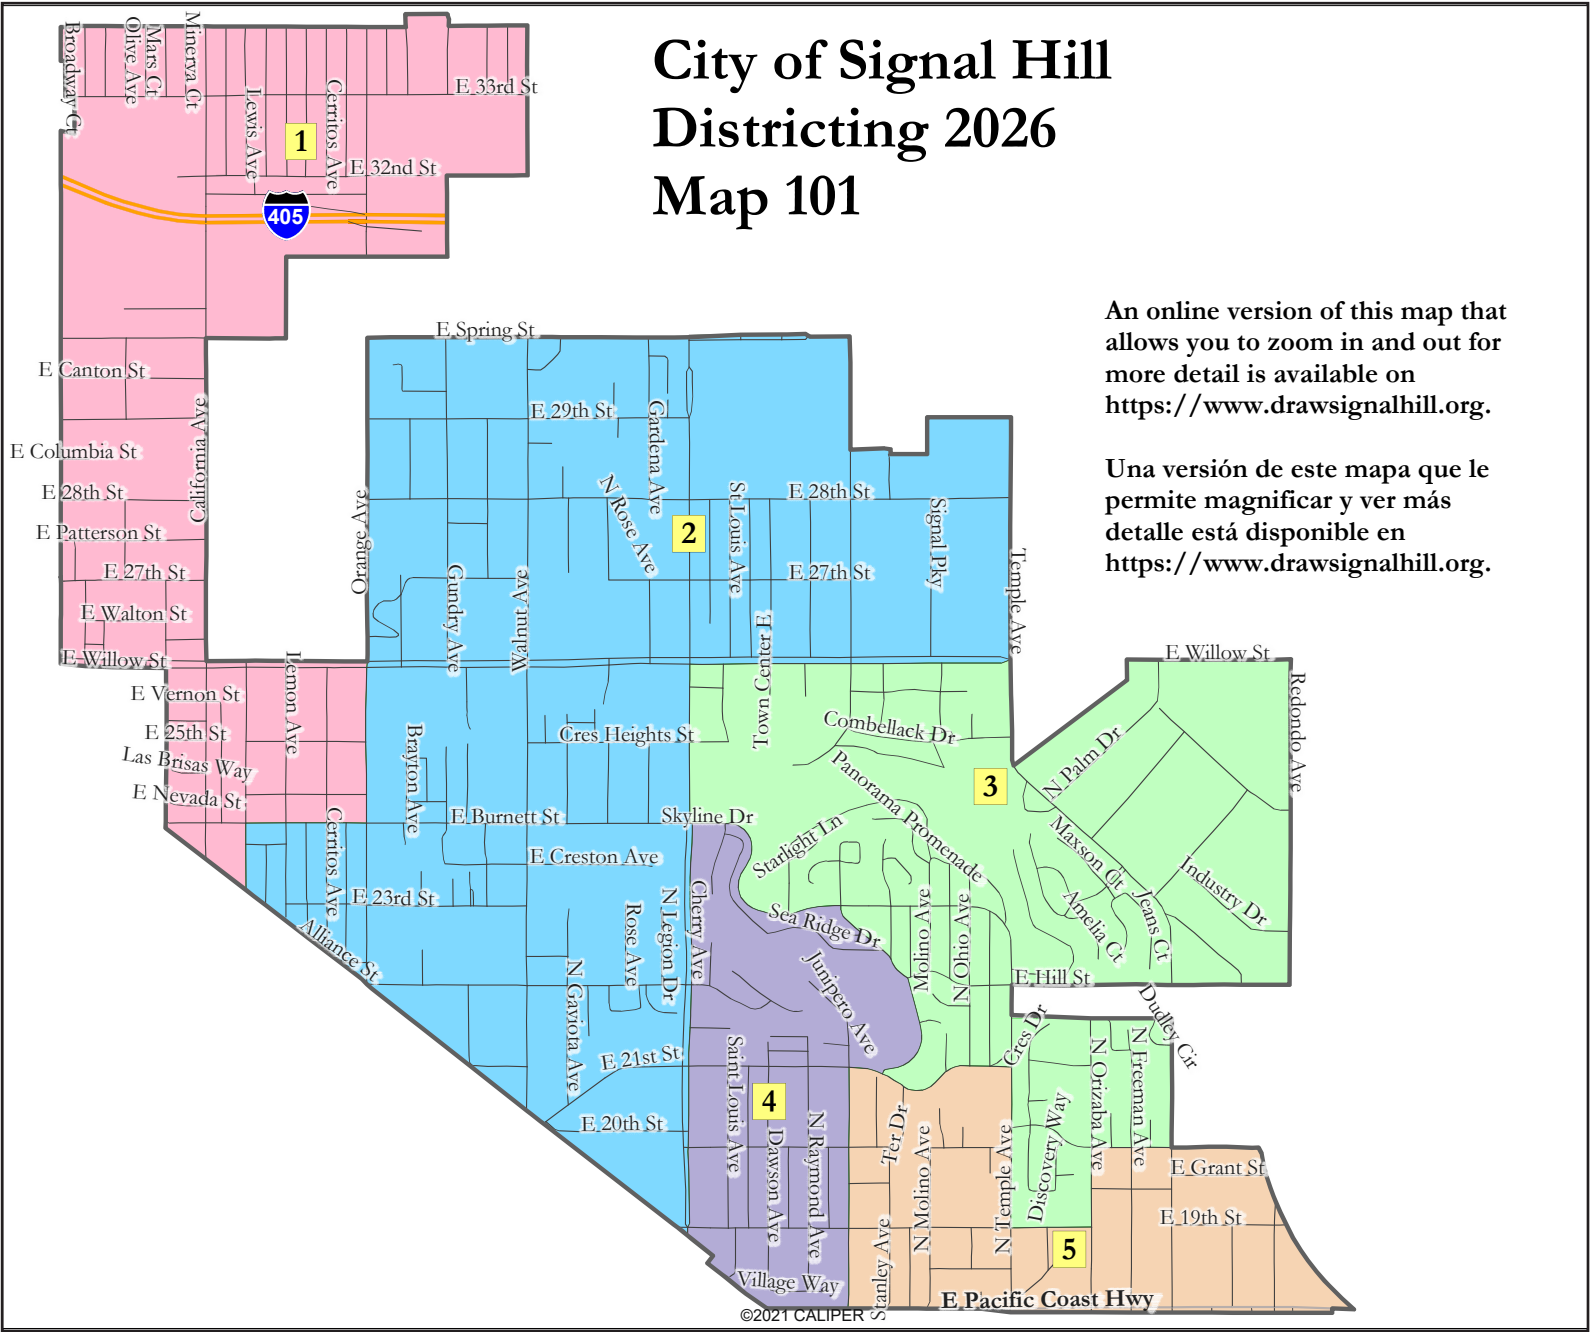

The next Census will take place in 2030 and may require redistricting. Thus, the adopted map will be revisited in 2031. Signal Hill will have to reexamine its maps after every Census count, which currently takes place every 10 years.

Each councilmember represents a different district, and residents will only be able to vote on the representative for the district they reside in. Every current councilmember will have the option to finish out the remainder of their term, regardless of what district they end up representing.

The position of mayor will continue to rotate through the council members.

Where a current councilmember resides cannot be taken into consideration when making the map. Multiple current councilmembers may end up living in the same district, in which case, when their election comes up, they can choose to run against one another or as an at-large councilmember, representing all districts.

Elections are expected to follow this format, but may be switched to the inverse:

During its Oct. 13 meeting, the Signal Hill City Council chose to use map 101 for its creation of voting districts, set to begin in November 2028.

- 2028: Districts 1, 3 and 5
 - 2030: Districts 2 and 4
- Residents and councilmembers pushed back against this change at the Oct. 13 meeting. Pam (no last name given), who has lived in Signal Hill for over 20 years, called the change to voting districts a “ridiculous burden” that the City has to do.
- Meanwhile, another Signal Hill resident, Mary Gonzalez, asked the council why they didn’t discuss this process at their recent State of the City and said it’s important the council treat this as a change that may result in greater participation for the Latino community.

“I think the hard thing for us with districts is that we really are one city in what we do and we’re very diverse,” Councilmember Keir Jones said. “We have neighborhoods filled with renters and owners, so we don’t really think of ourselves in these little pockets and so as we go to this, we still want to think of this as a city as a whole. We all on the city council today like representing the entire city and the vision of the entire city and focus on bringing our entire population forward, not just the folks who live in our district.”

All five maps are available to view on the City’s drawsignalhill.org, where residents can zoom in and look up specific addresses.

The next public hearing regarding Signal Hill’s district voting maps will take place on Oct. 27 at 7 p.m. at City Hall (2175 Cherry Ave.). Councilmembers will adopt their preferred map at this meeting and choose which districts will have an election in 2028 and 2030. The chosen map will be adopted into the City’s ordinance on Nov. 10.

Residents can email districts@signalhill.org with any questions about the process.

WATER DELIVERY

to have 2,353 GPM for a maximum daily demand.

Signal Hill utilizes water from wells 7 and 10, which have a combined capacity of 2,200 GPM, during the high-water-use months between March and October. From November through February, when water use is lower, well 9 is primarily used, which contains between 1,700 and 1,850 GPM. If needed, the city can still tap into wells 7 and 10 during this time.

Public Works also anticipates the City will have to shut down wells periodically for rehabilitation, inspections and routine upkeep, further underlining their need for the Long Beach interconnection. They estimate an annual cost savings of around $150,000 from the water they’ll be getting from Long Beach versus purchasing from the MWD.

Luna expects Signal Hill can begin purchasing water from Long Beach in the spring of next year.

Signal Hill currently has multiple water supply sources:

Supply	Zone Supplied	Capacity in Gallons per Minute (GPM)
Well 7	Supplies Gundry Reservoir	850 GPM
Well 9	Supplies Zone 1	50 GPM
Well 10	Supplies Gundry Reservoir	Pending
Metropolitan Water District	Supplies Zone 1	3,142 GPM

The City of Long Beach Department of Economic Development and Opportunity (EDO) is now accepting applications for its third cohort of the Long Beach Urban Planning and Design Internship Program.

The internship is a paid initiative designed to provide college students with real-world experience in urban planning, design, architecture and civic engagement.

Led by EDO's Long Beach Workforce Innovation Network (LBWIN) Youth Services Center and partnerships with Long Beach Community Design Center and Civic Confidence LLC, the program delivers an eight-month experience designed to cultivate the next generation of civic and community leaders, which brings in hands-on projects, interactive workshops and mentorship opportunities.

"Great cities are shaped by people who bring new ideas, fresh perspectives and a vision for what is possible," Mayor Rex Richardson said in a public statement. "By welcoming more voices into these conversations today, we are helping build a stronger, more inclusive and sustainable Long Beach for tomorrow."

The two previous cohorts have had 20 emerging professionals whose work contributed to the City's planning efforts and several graduates who have transitioned into full-time roles across planning, design, civic engagement and public service.

"Long Beach is investing in the next generation of talent by creating meaningful opportunities for young people to learn, explore and contribute to the future of our city," said EDO Director Bo Martinez in a public statement. "Building on the success of our first two cohorts, this Program will offer youth firsthand experience in urban planning and design. We're excited to continue creating pathways that connect young people to careers where they can make a lasting impact."

The program is open to those ages 18 to 30 who are currently enrolled in a community college or university program in urban planning, architecture or related fields. Participants will be compensated $22 per hour for a maximum of 500 hours and interns will be placed at worksites such as the City's Community Development Department, local nonprofits and private firms.

Priority will be given to Long Beach residents and students who reside in low-income or underserved communities.

Participants will be compensated $22 per hour for a maximum of 500 hours and interns will be placed at worksites such as the City's Community Development Department, local nonprofits and private firms.

For additional information about the Program and other youth and adult employment services, you can contact Reza Perl, Youth Programs Specialist, at 562-570-4577 or Reza.Pperl@longbeach.gov. Small business owners can apply for loans following $750K grant

Staff Report

Signal Tribune

The Long Beach Department of Economic Development & Opportunity (EDO) announced a $750,000 grant for the City's small business loan programs.

The grant, awarded by the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA), will go toward the City's Revolving Loan Fund, which provides local entrepreneurs and small business owners resources to start and grow their businesses.

"This investment is a powerful opportunity to put more capital directly into the hands of Long Beach entrepreneurs and small businesses," said Mayor Rex Richardson in a public statement. "By strengthening our small business loan programs, we are helping local businesses invest in their operations, create jobs, and build a stronger foundation for long-term growth. When our small businesses have the means to grow, our entire city benefits and thrives."

The City's small business loan programs, such as the Microenterprise Loan Program and Grow Long Beach Fund, provide low-interest capital to small businesses that are unable to secure traditional bank financing. In addition, these programs offer gap financing options — short-term loans for immediate financial obligations — that emphasize job creation, job retention, economic diversification and long-term economic stability citywide.

phases job creation, job retention, economic diversification and long-term economic stability citywide.

Long Beach has issued more than $7.9 million in loans, resulting in 650 jobs created or retained since 2001. According to the City, its loan portfolio currently includes 106 active loans totaling $3.8 million.

On June 16, the Long Beach City Council unanimously approved this expansion of local small business funding. Through the grant, the City will be reimbursed for eligible small business loans issued via its loan programs.

Loan amounts will range from $10,000 microloans to loans of several hundred thousand dollars, depending on the needs and eligibility of the applying business.

"By helping bridge the gap between businesses and traditional financing, the City is investing in the entrepreneurs who are at the heart of our local economy," said EDO Director Bo Martinez in a public statement. "These loan programs provide businesses with access to capital they need to strengthen their operations, pursue new opportunities and take their businesses to the next level"

In accordance with federal requirements, loans will carry fixed interest rates at 4% or 75% of the Wall Street Journal Prime Rate, with a maximum rate of prime plus 1%. Loan terms typically vary from five to 10 years, with a maximum of 25 years, and can be used for working capital, equipment purchases, business expenses or leasehold improvements.

Funds must be expended by Mar. 31, 2029. Those interested in applying for a small business loan can contact EDO's BizCare Hotline at 562-570-4BIZ (4249) or email BizCare@longbeach.gov.
